

The ESRA Group is the largest school of audiovisual arts in France. Created in 1972, it offers three bachelors programs in: Cinema and Television (ESRA), Sound (ISTS) and Animated Movies (Sup'Infograph).

It is the only private school entitled by the French government to issue and deliver a State degree at Bac+3 (French equivalent of a Bachelor).

It also offers to its graduates an optional fourth year of studies in NYC, during which they follow a program in English and shoot a short movie, in collaboration with a New York partner school.

A Continuing Education department also welcomes professionals and amateurs for complementary training lasting from 1 week to 9 months.

Two masters are available to graduate students interested in specializing in: FILM PRODUCTION AND DISTRIBUTION, and in SCRIPTWRITING for fiction and documentary.

ESRA alumni include over 4,000 active professionals in the TV and film industry – which can be found on our Alumni website : www.agesra.com. ESRA alumni work in the fields of cinema, television, music, sound engineering and animation film.

ESRA, based in Paris, also has campuses in Nice, on the French Riviera, since 1988, and in Rennes since 1999.
