

The National Film and Television School (NFTS) is the UK's centre of excellence for graduate film and TV training (<http://nfts.co.uk>). It selects the most talented people to enter the film, games and television industry at a professional level and is ranked by the Hollywood Reporter as one of the Top Four Film & TV Schools in the world outside USA.

The NFTS has taught the country's top media talent for over forty years including award-winning graduates Director David Yates (Harry Potter), Cinematographer Roger Deakins (Skyfall), Animator Nick Park (Wallace & Gromit), Composer Dario Marianelli (Atonement) and many other notable talents in the UK film and television industry.

NFTS graduates have won a stunning 7 Oscars, over 100 BAFTAs and the coveted Cannes Film Festival Camera d'Or prize among many others. In 2014, NFTS graduates have been nominated for 13 Academy Awards and BAFTAs as well as 6 out of 7 Golden Reel awards for sound editing. Last year it made history by becoming the first film and television school to win all three CILECT awards for fiction, animation and documentary.

The NFTS is a Creative Skillset Film Academy and its MA courses are recognised by the Royal College of Art.